1. Q.199 - Questionnaire

The Groups are asked to reply to the following questions in the context of what applies or what they may consider ought to apply in their own country or by agreement between their country and others, as may be appropriate to the particular question. The responses of each Group need to be endorsed by that Group. It will be helpful and appreciated if the Groups follow the order of the questions in their reports and use the questions and numbers for their responses.

Present position

Local position

- 1.1 What protection of clients against forcible disclosure of communications relating to IP professional advice applies in your country as to such communications between clients and IP professionals within your country?

There is NO special provisions regarding protection of clients against forcible disclosure of communications relating to IP professional advice applies in Russia. Patent attorney is obliged to keep information received from the client confidential but the law does not give any privileges to such information. The only exemption is when IP professional is registered as advocate (special status of lawyer who is entitled to handle criminal defence cases). In this case (article 8 on the Law on advocates) – the information received by advocate from the client is privileged and shall not be forcefully disclosed. Besides that exemption only general rule on protection of commercial secret (if IP legal advice is presented as commercial secret).

- 1.2 What protection of clients against forcible disclosure of communications relating to IP professional advice applies in your country as to such communications between clients and third parties (such as technical experts) where their advice is required to enable legal advice related to IP to be obtained and given?

No special provisions i.e. Only general rule on protection of commercial secret (if such communication is presented as commercial secret).

- 1.3 What protection of clients against forcible disclosure of communications relating to IP professional advice applies as to such communications between IP professionals and third parties (such as technical experts) where their advice is required to enable IP legal advice to be obtained and given?

No special provisions i.e. for IP professionals Only general rule on protection of commercial secret (if such communication is presented as commercial secret). The only exemption is when IP professional is registered as advocate (special status of lawyer who is entitled to handle criminal defence cases). In this case (article 8 on the Law on advocates) – the information received by advocate from the client is privileged and shall not be forcefully disclosed.

Overseas communications

- 1.4 What protection of clients applies in your country against forcible disclosure of communications applies to clients relating to IP professional advice where those communications are (a) between their local IP professionals in your country and overseas IP professionals, and (b) between clients and overseas IP professionals?

No special provisions i.e. for IP professionals Only general rule on protection of commercial secret (if such communication is presented as commercial secret). The only exemption is when IP professional is registered as advocate (special status of lawyer who is entitled to handle criminal defence cases). In this case (article 8 on the Law on advocates) – the information received by advocate from the client is privileged and shall not be forcefully disclosed.

Scope of protection – qualifications of IP professional advisers

- 1.5 As to each of the following sub-paragraphs (i) to (iv) inclusive, to what category or categories (eg lawyer, lawyer/patent attorney, non lawyer patent attorney, lawyer/trade marks attorney, non lawyer trade marks attorney etc) of IP professional adviser does the client protection described in your answer to previous questions denoted below, apply or not apply, including whether your answers apply only to external advisers, or also to in-house advisers?

- (i) as to 1.1. ie the protection (if any) of clients against forcible disclosure of communications relating to IP professional advice which applies in your country as to such communications between clients and IP professionals within your country?

Only for ADVOCATS

- (ii) as to 1.2 ie the protection (if any) of clients against forcible disclosure of communications relating to IP professional advice which applies in your country as to such communications between clients and third parties (such as technical experts) where their advice is required to enable legal advice related to IP to be obtained and given?

SAME

- (iii) as to 1.3 ie the protection (if any) of clients against forcible disclosure of communications relating to IP professional advice which applies as to such communications between IP professionals and third parties (such as technical experts) where their advice is required to enable IP legal advice to be obtained and given?

SAME

- (iv) as to 1.4 ie the protection (if any) of clients which applies in your country against forcible disclosure of communications relating to IP professional advice as to those communications which are (a) between their local IP professionals in your country and overseas IP professionals, and (b) between the clients and overseas IP professionals?

SAME

Limitations and exceptions

- 1.6 What limitations (eg dominant purpose test, judges' discretion to do justice etc) and/or exceptions (eg crime/fraud etc) and/or waivers apply to the protection described in your answers to previous questions denoted below?

- (i) as to 1.1 ie the protection (if any) of clients against forcible disclosure of communications relating to IP professional advice which applies in your country as to such communications between clients and IP professionals within your country?

If IP professional is advocate then only crime/fraud exception is applicable

- (ii) as to 1.2 ie the protection (if any) of clients against forcible disclosure of communications relating to IP professional advice which applies in your country as to such communications between clients and third parties (such as technical experts) where their advice is required to enable legal advice related to IP to be obtained and given?

- (iv) as to 1.4 ie the protection (if any) of clients which applies in your country against forcible disclosure of communications relating to IP professional advice where those communications are (a) between their local IP professionals in your country and overseas IP professionals, and (b) between the clients and overseas IP professionals?

SAME

Quality of protection

Local communications

- 1.7 Does your Group consider that the protection described in answer to questions denoted below is of appropriate quality, or not, and if not, why not – including what are the problems in practice?

We believe that the most significant limitation is the fact that protection is available only for advocates and patent attorneys do not enjoy such protection at all (if not registered as advocates)

- (i) as to 1.1 ie the protection of clients against forcible disclosure of communications relating to IP professional advice which applies in your country as to such communications between clients and IP professionals within your country?
- (ii) as to 1.2 ie the protection of clients against forcible disclosure of communications relating to IP professional advice which applies in your country as to such communications between clients and third parties (such as technical experts) where their advice is required to enable legal advice related to IP to be obtained and given?
- (iii) as to 1.3 ie the protection of clients against forcible disclosure of communications relating to IP professional advice which applies as to such communications between IP professionals and third parties (such as technical experts) where their advice is required to enable IP legal advice to be obtained and given?
- (iv) as to 1.4 ie the protection applies in your country against forcible disclosure of communications applies to clients relating to IP professional advice where those communications are (a) between their local IP professionals in your country and overseas IP professionals, and (b) between clients and overseas IP professionals?

Communications with overseas IP advisers

- 1.8 Does your Group consider that the protection described in answer to question 1.4 above is of appropriate quality or not, and if not, why not – what are the problems in practice?

2. Remedies

The 'device' to be agreed and applied within and between countries

The Working Guidelines indicate that such a 'device' could be on a scale between unilateral changes and treaties. However, unilateral changes will not solve the problem that no country is immune from the potential that IP legal advice which is protected from disclosure within its own borders, will be required to be disclosed in another country or countries (see para 2.4 (viii)). The Groups are requested to focus on the standard or principle required to remedy problems nationally and internationally (see para 4.6).

Limitations

Tests such as the 'dominant purpose' test.

- 2.1 Does your Group agree that provision should be made in the agreed principle or standard that countries may limit the documents to which protection applies in their country to such standard or by such test as defines what relationship is required between the documents and the IP legal advice for which protection from disclosure is claimed?

We agree, the standard provisions on such documents must be elaborated to avoid double meaning.

- 2.2 As to your answer to 2.1 (bearing in mind that it would not be mandatory for any country to have such a limitation), why?

Judicial discretion to deny protection

- 2.3 Does your Group agree (as para 2.7 of the Working Guidelines suggests) that provision should be made in the agreed principle or standard, that countries may allow judicial discretion to deny protection from disclosure where that is found on reasonable grounds to be required in order to enable the court to do justice between the parties?

We believe that standard provisions counting limited possibility for such disclosure shall be elaborated.

- 2.4 As to your answer to 2.3 (bearing in mind that it would not be mandatory for any country to have such a limitation), why?

- 2.5 If your Group considers that the limitation in relation to judicial discretion would be acceptable if expressed differently from 2.3, how would you express it?

We agree

Qualifications required of IP advisers

- 2.6 Does your Group agree (as para 4.14 of the Working Guidelines suggests) that the standard required by the principle agreed should be no more than requiring the IP adviser 'to be qualified to give the IP advice in relation to which the question arises, in the country in which the advice is given'?

We agree

- 2.7 If your answer to 2.6 is no, if your Group considers that the limitation would be acceptable if differently expressed, how would you express it?

- 2.8 If for some category of IP adviser in your country, no qualification is required –

- (i) What category is that?
- (ii) Do you think that protection from forcible disclosure of IP professional advice should apply to communications relating to the advice between clients and persons in that category?
- (iii) As to your answer to sub-para (ii), why?

Scope of protection against forcible disclosure – the differences between lawyer-client privilege and litigation privilege

- 2.9 Does your Group agree in principle (para 4.25 of the Working Guidelines raises this question) that the standard or principle agreed should allow countries to limit the protection they provide according to categories of privilege which are currently part of their law?

We agree. The agreed limitations shall be possible as and exception from general rule of protection of information involved in IP professional's activity

- 2.10 If no to 2.9 (bearing in mind that such a limitation would not import any effect on a country that does not already have such a limitation unless it voluntarily adopted such a limitation), why?
- 2.11 As to any country which applies a limitation referred to in para 2.9, do you agree that the agreed standard or principle should not deny such a country the right to vary or abolish such a limitation should it wish to do so in the future – in other words, there should be liberty to vary or abolish a presently applied limitation?

We agree

If yes to 2.11, what limitation (if any) should apply to the liberty to vary or abolish a previously applied limitation and how would you express it?

We do not see any legitimate possibility to deny the country such sovereign right

Exceptions and waivers

- 2.12 Does your Group agree in principle (para 4.30 of the Working Guidelines suggests this) that the standard or principle agreed should in any particular country be subject to any exception (such as the crime-fraud exception) and waivers which are already part of the law of that country.

We agree

- 2.13 Assuming that the maintenance of exceptions and waivers already part of the law of any country is accepted in AIPPI, does your Group agree that the allowance of existing exceptions and waivers should not deny any country the right to vary or to abolish any such an exception or waiver should it wish to do so in the future, in other words, that there should be liberty to vary or abolish a presently applied exception or waiver?

We agree

- 2.14 If yes to 2.14, what limitation (if any) should apply to the liberty to vary or abolish a previously applied exception or waiver and how would you express it?

At least fraud/crime exceptions

The AIPPI proposal compared with the alternative described in Section 5 above

- 2.15 Leaving aside the potential need to provide for limitations and exceptions in relation to the AIPPI proposal, and assuming there are no other proposals, from the Groups as an alternative to the AIPPI proposal, which of these two proposals (the AIPPI and the alternative in Section 5 above), does your Group prefer and if so why?

We agree with AIPPI proposal as more balanced.

Proposals from your Group

- 2.16 Assuming that your Group would prefer a proposal different from those proposed by AIPPI or in Section 5, please describe the preferred proposal of your Group.
- 2.17 The Groups are invited to submit any further comments they might have with regard to the principles of remedies in the context of this Questionnaire, which have not been dealt with or mentioned specifically in the Questionnaire.

Note:

It will be helpful and appreciated if Groups follow the order of the questions in their Reports and use the questions and numbers for each answer.
